THE CITY

In 1857, the city of Orlando officially adopted its name. Though there are many stories about how the name Orlando was chosen, one of the most prominent explanations is that then-judge James Speer named it after a character from Shakespeare's "As You Like It."

Major events in Orlando history include 1965, when Walt Disney announced his plans to build Walt Disney World – one reason why the masses still flock to Orlando today. The other major event happened when the original airport was built in 1962.

Metro Orlando has a rapidly growing $13 billion technology industry that employs 53,000 people. It is recognized nationally for the industries of digital media, aviation, software and aerospace. More than 150 international companies have facilities in Orlando.

Orlando's climate is humid and subtropical with two major seasons a year. From June to September, the weather is hot and rainy, while the dry season lasts from October through May.

DO & SEE

Photo: xrayspx

From theme parks to natural parks on the lakes, there is much to see and experience in the greater Orlando area. Today, this city has more theme parks and entertainment attractions than anywhere else in the world.

The Magic Kingdom

This is where all the magic happens! The Magic Kingdom – one of four theme parks in the Walt Disney World family – is the home of the Cinderella Castle. Designed like a giant wheel, the paths of the spokes lead to the seven different themed areas: Main Street USA, Tomorrowland, Mickey's Toontown Fair, Fantasyland, Liberty Square, Frontierland and Adventureland. See your favorite Disney characters, attractions and behind-the-scenes tours. It is best to go in the off-season.

Orlando Science Museum and Dr. Phillips Cinedome

When theme parks just won't do, check out the educational yet fun alternative – The Orlando Science Center. This huge 5-story building is chock full of exhibits and activities on each level. Don't miss the Dr. Phillips Cinedome, which is an 8-story mega-screen theatre. The OSC also has a planetarium on the top floor that opens every Friday and Saturday night. The latest exhibit is called Charlie & Kiwi's Evolutionary Adventure, where children can learn about the evolutionary connections between dinosaurs and birds, plus much more!

Address: 777 E Princeton St
Phone: +1 407 514 2277
Internet: www.osc.org

Sea World

If the aquatic life is for you, Sea World is a fun day in the sun. The famous whale Shamu does multiple shows a day that children and adults both enjoy. Other shows to see include the Dolphin Horizons show and Clyde & Seamore. Visitors can feed dolphins and stingrays if they are brave enough! Try the Underwater Grill at the Shark Encounter for a good, sit-down meal. Don't leave the park early – the last ten minutes before closing every night is a fireworks show.

Photo: closari

Since Orlando is one of the best service-industry cities in the world, the restaurants and cuisine choices will not disappoint. The real problem will be choosing where to dine.

Victoria and Albert's

This 5-star special occasion restaurant offers a once-in-lifetime dining experience and is located inside Disney's Grand Floridian Resort. Dinner is 7-course and will take up to 3 hours to savor. Expect to be catered to every single minute during these 3 hours. Also, best enjoyed without the little ones. Each course is served with wine pairings. Make reservations at least 3 months in advance.

Address: Grand Floridian
Phone: +1 407 939 3463
Internet: www.victoria-alberts.com
More Info: Disney's Grand Floridian Resort and Spa

Hemingway's

This restaurant, hidden behind the Hyatt Grand Cypress hotel, is a love letter to the author with photographs and fishing trophies everywhere you look. The décor is quintessential Key West with hurricane lamps, smaller intimate rooms and a wooden deck that overlooks a waterfall. Must-tries include the blackened Mahi Mahi, beer-battered coconut shrimp and lobster-crusted sea bass. Skip the wine and have a Papa Dobles, a rum delight true to Hemingway's original recipe.

Address: 1 Grand Cypress Blvd
Phone: +1 407 239 3854
Internet: www.hyattgrandcypress.com

Yellow Dog Eats

This old country store converted to a restaurant yells fun the minute you enter, decorated with dog pictures and their owners everywhere. Try sandwiches like the Johnny Rocket or the Puppy Love. Chef Fish is known for making a legendary pulled pork sandwich. Though this restaurant is a little out of the way, it is completely worth the drive.

Address: 1236 Hempel Ave
Phone: +1 407 296 0609
Internet: www.yellowdogeats.com

Emeril´s Orlando

Emeril's menu reflects the celebrity chef perfectly influenced by Cajun and Creole cuisine and always creative. Expect the unexpected like crabmeat strudel and lobster cheesecake. The wine cellar has more than 12,000 selections. Make a reservation in advance and keep in mind that jackets are required.
